Briefly describe the protagonist.

Briefly describe the antagonist.

Briefly describe any other characters used to develop the protagonist.

Do any of the characters remind you of a Bible character? Explain who, and why.

Describe the setting.

Indicate the point of view and name the narrator, if applicable:

First Person

Third Person

Third Person Omniscient

How does this choice of narrator add to or detract from the story?

What is an important theme of the story?

What tools does the author use to convey this theme? (How do you know this is his main idea?) Describe at least four major events, the conflict and resolution of the conflict. Note the author's use of irony or an unexpected twist at the end, if applicable.

Seniors, give the author's worldview and defend your conclusion. What behavior do the characters manifest that lead you to this conclusion?

Briefly describe one new idea or new understanding about life that you took away from this book.

Explain why you liked (or disliked!) this book.
